

モニーク・ディヘイニーさん
Monique Dehaney

Hails from the beautiful resort location of Montego Bay. Gospel chorus member in childhood. Arrived in Japan in 2005. Provided background vocals at events and TV commercials with a wide range of Japanese musicians such as Exile Atsushi and Mika Nakashima. Major debut in 2014 with cover version of Yuki Koyanagi's hit "Anata no Kisu wo Kazoemashou." Performed on Nippon TV's Song for Japan, and became known as "the Caribbean princess of song," winning over the performers and audience with the skill and sustain of her natural singing voice. Her rhythm and husky voice is magnificent in genres from ballads to pop, gospel to jazz.

Jamaican Mini-Concert

Tottori Prefecture has been chosen to host the Jamaican athletes during the Tokyo Olympics and Paralympics. We hope that this mini-concert by an artist from Jamaica at the Yonago Festival will help provide more Tottorians with a taste of Jamaican culture, and open the doors to more mutual exchange activities between our two lands.
